

UCISA Top Concerns Survey 2007 - Results and actions

Iain Stinson

Director of Computing Services, the University of Liverpool, Liverpool L69 7ZF
iain.stinson@liverpool.ac.uk

UCISA is the University and Colleges Information Systems Association and represents the whole of higher education in the provision and development of academic, management and administrative information systems. UCISA has developed a Top Concerns process which identifies the top issues facing our membership. The paper briefly describe the history of the process and how it works. The 2007 survey results will be presented and compared with the results for the Eduserv Top Issues survey. Some of the concerns will be considered in detail and options for addressing them explored.